Suspect American Gangland Methods In Cuban Slaughter

Believe American Gangmen Responsible For Death of Dr. Clemente Varquez Bello, Killed by Sub-machine Gun—Uncover Another Plot.

Havana, Sept. 29 (AP).—The possibility that American gang men have invaded Cuba with ultra-modern methods of slaughter was being investigated by police today in their effort to clear up the slaying of five political leaders here Tuesday.

Authorities based their gunman theory on the fact that Dr. Clemente Varquez Bello, president of the Cuban Senate, was slain very much in the American gang manner.

Bello was cut down by a rain of bullets from an automobile which ran alongside the car in which he was riding. The fact that he was hit by more than a dozen bullets and more than sixty struck the side of his car indicated, police said, that a sub-machine gun was used by the killers.

Three Killed in Home

The marks of modernistic crime were not so clear in the slaying of the four opposition leaders, however. Three brothers, Gonzalo, Leopoldo and Guillermo Freyre De Andrada were slain inside their residence by a gang which rushed the house, shot them down, and rushed out again. Miguel Angel Aguilar, the fourth oppositionist slain, was shot down when he went to the door of his home to meet the killers.

A second plot, which police said might have resulted in wholesale deaths of the family and friends of Dr. Varquez Bello, as well as high government officials, was uncovered by police yesterday at Santa Clara in the discovery of a huge dynamite bomb planted in Colon cemetery near the spot where it was originally reported Dr. Varquez Bello would be buried.

All the employees of the cemetery, numbering nine or ten, were arrested and held for investigation. Explosives experts today uncovered 23 separate mines containing more than 300 pounds of dynamite, all controlled by an electrical switch eight blocks away in a Chinese cemetery. There was enough explosive to have blown the whole funeral cortege to death, the experts said.

See Well Kilt Plot

It was pointed out that the most prominent figures in Cuban political life, and many government leaders would have been gathered around the spot at the funeral. There also was evidence the mines had been laid for some time and this gave rise to a theory that the killing of Dr. Varquez Bello was part of a plot to wipe out most of the government leaders with one blow.

Squads of police made a systematic search of houses in the suburb of Miramar when it was reported a number of participants in the slayings were hidden there.

All public assemblies, including a play-by-play presentation of the World's Series in New York, were suspended yesterday in honor of Dr. Varquez Bello. A seven-coach military train left with the body for the family home at Santa Clara, where the funeral is to be held.

MAC DONALD RECONSTRUCTING NEW BRITAIN CABINET

London, Sept. 28 (AP).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald stood firm today despite the resignation from the cabinet of his labor colleague of 40 years, Philip Snowden, and several Liberal cabinet members.

He began immediately to reconstruct the cabinet on national lines. Sir John Gilmour, Conservative, was moved from the post of Minister of Agriculture to the home secretaryship, vacated by Sir Herbert Samuel, leader of the Liberals who refused to accept the tariff proposals contained in the recent Ottawa Trade Conference.

Major Walter Elliot, Conservative, was named Minister of Agriculture and Sir Godfrey Collins, Liberal, was given the post of Secretary for Scotland vacated by Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal.

In the meantime, the resignations seemed to have widened the rift in the Liberal party which began over the formation of the national cabinet last fall.

"We are not quitters," Walter Runciman, Liberal and President of the Board of Trade, told a meeting of National Liberal members of the House of Commons which congratulated him and Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, for declining to follow the other Liberals out of the cabinet. Thirty of the 35 so-called "Union Liberals" in the House attended the meeting which passed a resolution saying they would continue to support the MacDonald government.

PATE OF MEN'S CREW IS KNOWN TO MARINE.

San Francisco, Sept. 29 (AP).—The fate of the crew of 35 of the freighter Nevada was known today as a westerly gale pounded the Nevada to pieces on the rocks of a lonely North Pacific island and kept another vessel from landing aid.

No small boat driven back by heavy swell, the Japanese freighter Oregon was seen by helplessly and watched the crew as the 410-ton craft. The Oregon was located the Nevada late yesterday.

Two Men Killed by Explosion in Auto

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 29 (AP).—Two men, who police said they believed were on a death-dealing mission, were killed early today as the result of an explosion in their parked automobile in West Scranton.

Detectives tentatively identified them as Alfred Satri, 36, and Rinaldo Augustinelli, about the same age, both of Jessup, Pa., near here.

The explosion caused considerable damage in the neighborhood, injuring Mrs. Helen Salanski, 60; Mrs. Evelyn Crew, 38, and Edwin Goodfield, 16, who were asleep in their home and were cut by shattered window glass.

Portions of the bodies of the two men were found a considerable distance from the spot where the blast occurred.

Nothing was left of the small automobile, a small coupe, but a twisted chassis, and twisted wheels.

Captain of police Albert Gleason said he was working on a theory that the explosion occurred while the two men were preparing a heavy charge of dynamite with a cap.

He also expressed an opinion that the two men in the automobile were plotting to "plant" the explosive under some structure in the neighborhood. Two bags which had contained dynamite were found.

Public Welfare Officers of County Will Meet Tonight

Purpose of Meeting Is To Discuss Whole Welfare Situation, With Particular Reference to Unemployment.

A meeting of all the public welfare officers of the county will be held tonight at 7 o'clock at the superintendents room in the court house.

The meeting is called by W. W. McElhorne, county welfare commissioner, with a view to securing a general discussion of the whole welfare situation, with particular reference to the unemployment situation and its probable aggravation during the winter.

Mr. McElhorne desires to learn as fully as possible the exact situation in the county and discover what resources are available to meet it.

According to a census made under the direction of the various town welfare officers there were in the towns of the county, outside of the city of Kingston, approximately 1,700 unemployed in August.

In view of the fact that people have been using up their savings to pay bills and that many have been engaged in fruit picking and other seasonal employment, it is expected that there will be a considerable increase over the number shown in August, before the winter is over.

New York state has already spent for relief in the towns of Ulster county, from November 1, 1931, to September 1, this year, about $12,000. Unless the $30,000,000 proposed bond issue, to be voted in November, is passed by the voters, this source of help may not be available, as the life of the Temporary Relief Administration created under the Wicks act, expires November 15.

At the meeting tonight the situation and sources of possible relief will be discussed by several speakers. Including Miss Winifred Erskine, state supervising nurse and other public health nurses; Miss Evelyn Nance of the Home Bureau, who will tell what her units are prepared to do in providing clothing; F. E. Greene, field representative of the Emergency Relief for Ulster, Greene and Orange counties, who will explain the part the state can take.

FAVORS SUBMISSION OF PROHIBITION QUESTION

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP).—Submission of the prohibition issue to the people during the next session of Congress is favored by Chairman Sumners of the House Judiciary committee.

The Texas Democrat, long a prohibition supporter, announced his position in a statement issued last night. At the last session, the Judiciary committee voted down a proposed home-rule amendment to the Eighteenth Amendment.

Sumners said: "Regardless of attitude towards the liquor question, the position of the major political parties and the other indications of public attitude and purpose establish that it is a fact that the resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment as it is usually stated, is a foregone conclusion."

"Quite probably that issue will be submitted during the next session of Congress. It is my purpose to favor such submission. The question is ripe. The national campaign will be over and it would seem as good time as any to get this question back to the people for the expression of their attitude and judgment with reference to it."

MARRIED WOMAN WANTS TO USE MAIDEN NAME

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP).—The right of a married woman to use her maiden name in running for public office is being agitated by the National Women's party.

The campaign is directed in behalf of Miss Elsie Hill, of Norfolk, Conn., 11 years the wife of Prof. Albert Levitt.

Feminist Miss Hill, running for Congress on the Independent Republican ticket, wants the seat of her father, the late Ebenezer Hill, held for 21 years.

Protests have been made that Miss Hill cannot legally run for nor hold office, in her maiden name. They are being answered, with voluminous legal citations, by Burnita Shelton Matthews, National Women's party attorney, who has gone deeply into the legality of following the tenets of Lucy Stone.

CHINESE GENERAL IN REVOLT OVER NEW STATE

Mukden, Manchuria, Sept. 29 (AP).—Difficulties of Russia and Japan on the Manchurian border were revived today by the revolt of the Chinese General, Su Ping-Wen, whose troops seized the key border town of Manchali and a considerable part of the surrounding area of Manchukuo.

A large number of Manchukuo troops were killed when General Su's artillery destroyed four barracks at Manchali and seized a number of towns and villages in the vicinity, reports said.

Manchukuo authorities seemed unable to proceed against General Su's army and the possibility of Japanese military action was complicated owing to the possible danger of a clash on the Russian frontier which might involve the Red army there.

No Cause of Action In Grocery Case

A verdict of no cause of action was returned Wednesday afternoon in county court where the action brought by Angus T. Joy, as executor of the last will and testament of James Kelly, against Louis Hulsair, Jr., has been on trial since Monday afternoon.

The action was to recover money alleged due for purchase of groceries. Mr. Hulsair denied he owed the bill and sought to recover $155 which he claimed he had loaned the late Clarence Kelly to pay bills for the firm of which Clarence Kelly was manager at the time.

The case was a complicated one with many unusual sides. Joy, who is settling up the affairs of the late James Kelly alleged that according to the books of the firm kept by Clarence Kelly who died shortly before his father, Louis Hulsair, Jr., owed the firm a balance of $215.81, together with interest amounting in all to $212.27. Mr. Hulsair sought to recover an alleged $185 loan which with interest amounted to $204.11.

The jury had the opportunity of bringing in a verdict in either amount or an alternative verdict might have been found in the event the jury found the balance was due the estate but that Hulsair had loaned the $185. This would have called for a verdict of $28.11 for plaintiff. A verdict of no cause of action was the remaining decision at which the jury might and did arrive.

There was little testimony offered by plaintiff other than documentary. Witnesses were sworn to indicate that the Kelly books were correctly kept. The books were offered and a letter was presented by plaintiff showing that Mrs. Hulsair had knowledge of an alleged balance due. When this letter was offered it created a stir, Mrs. Hulsair, who was on the stand being examined, fainting and a recess was taken to give her an opportunity to recover.

Introduction of the letter came after testimony had been given by defendant that he owed no bill, that he had cashed checks every Saturday night at the Kelly store and had paid his weekly bills and received the balance from Mr. Kelly. He denied that he had run a bill over a week and offered slips and checks to show payments. He testified that he was at the store Saturday nights when a settlement was made between the Hulsairs of the weekly profits of their blue-stone business and that the checks were cashed at Kelly's.

On those occasions his bills were paid. Groceries ordered and delivered by Kelly Tuesday were paid for as well as groceries which were bought at that time. The actual payment of the bills was made by Mrs. Hulsair.

Questioned on Letter

Following this testimony Mrs. Hulsair was called and a letter was shown her. The letter was written by her to Mr. Kelly on December 17, 1930, after a letter had been received at the Hulsair home addressed to Mr. Hulsair. The letter stated that she had recognized the letter as one from the Kelly store and she had opened it and was amazed at the amount of the grocery bill. She begged Mr. Kelly not to mention the matter to Mr. Hulsair and stated that she would pay all she owed if given more time. The letter stated how she would make payments and again asked Mr. Kelly not to "Mention it to Lou." This letter was presented by plaintiff to show that there was a bill and that Mrs. Hulsair knew of it. It was intimated that by reason of her requesting Mr. Kelly not to tell her husband about the matter, that bills which Hulsair had supposed had been paid had not been taken care of. Plaintiff alleged that any bill which Mrs. Hulsair knew existed was a just debt of her husband.

When Mrs. Hulsair was asked about the letter she became nervous and fainting. Later she recovered and admitted writing the letter but stated that she had been so surprised over the bill and the amount that she had written hastily without having taken time to consider the matter. No amount due was mentioned in her letter which she sent to Kelly.

There was also some testimony that after Mr. Joy took over the business he sent out bills and sent a bill for some $500 balance to Louis Hulsair. Mr. Hulsair went to the store and stated that he owed no such amount and Mr. Joy and he went over the books and various bills charged on the bill were found paid but there was still some $200 which the Kelly books showed was due. It was this amount which was sued for.

Augustus Shufeldt appeared for plaintiff and Robert J. Howard for defendant.

No. 16, Ralph Bush, Daisy Bush and Sina Bush against Otis Bardin, a negligence action, was announced as settled.

A jury was taken in No. 59, Forst and Davis Motor Car Company, Inc., against Lester M. Shultz, an action to recover balance due on a motor car. Lloyd R. LeFevre appeared for plaintiff and Robert J. Howard for defendant. This matter will be taken up at 10 o'clock Friday. Court recessed until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

WIFE RELENTED AND HUSBAND WAS FREED IN POLICE COURT

William Burmeister of 7 East Pierpont street was arrested by his wife Wednesday evening and turned over to the police on a charge of assault in the third degree. This morning at the city hall Mrs. Burmeister withdrew the charge on the payment of a dollar and she and her husband left the court room together.

CHILD KILLED BY TRUCK

Watertown, N. Y., Sept. 29 (AP).—Theresa English, 7-year-old yesterday by a state highway department truck died last night. Bert R. Howitt, driver, said he tried to swerve the car to one side as the child darted into its path. The child was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. English.

Hoover Has Earned Right To Complete Reconstruction Job

Secretary Mills Tells Michigan Republicans In Their State Convention—Days President Measured Up To Requirements of Leadership.

Detroit, Sept. 29 (AP).—J. Edgar Hoover, Secretary of the Treasury, told Michigan Republicans in their State Convention today that President Hoover "has mastered the forces of destruction, has laid the foundation for recovery, and earned the right to complete the task of reconstruction."

Describing what he referred to as "the second phase of the depression," Secretary Mills said that "but for the series of events which began in the late spring of 1931 it is not an unreasonable assumption that recovery from our depression might well have begun many months ago."

This "second phase of the depression," he said, "infinitely more severe and dangerous than anything we had yet encountered began in Europe," where "the destructive consequences" of the World War "showed themselves unmistakably at last."

He said, "was a credit crisis and financial panic of the first magnitude, superimposed upon a major business and agriculture depression."

Mr. Mills outlined the program presented to Congress by President Hoover to meet the emergency and another which he termed the "strictly Democratic program."

Had the Democratic program become law, the treasury head said, the result would have been "disaster, final and irrevocable."

Secretary Mills referred directly to the Democratic presidential nominee only once, in discussing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

"Governor Roosevelt," he said, "through loose and unfounded charges which he has made against the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has created misunderstanding as to the character of the great services that have been rendered. He said that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation benefits only the great city banks and other large institutions. The contrary is true. The great majority of the banks which have borrowed from the corporation are located in small towns."

"America," Secretary Mills said, "has had more popular presidents, presidents better versed in the petty art of politics; presidents better able to dramatize themselves and their actions; but America has had no president who acted more swiftly, with surer decision, achieved more, and in the face of overwhelming danger, whose failure meant nationwide disaster, more fully measured up to the requirements of leadership than Herbert Hoover."

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT TO DISCUSS TARIFF ISSUE

Aboard the Roosevelt Special, Sept. 29 (AP).—Governor Roosevelt, with the public avowal of his candidacy by Senator George W. Norris entered on the record, today crossed Nebraska to Sioux City, Ia., where he is to discuss the long time difference of the Democratic and Republican parties on the tariff.

After Norris, independent Republican at McCook, Neb., last night publicly endorsed Roosevelt, declaring "Patriotism demands that we put our country's interests before our party's interests." Mr. Roosevelt said "I rejoice in and approve the statement that Senator Norris is a better Republican than President Hoover."

Tonight, in a baseball park at Sioux City, Mr. Roosevelt will take up the issue that has historically divided the Democratic and Republican parties. Enroute to Sioux City the nominee will make a stop at Omaha.

Last night at McCook, home town of Senator Norris, Roosevelt heard the veteran legislator, speaking to a crowd of 20,000 or more at the fair grounds, say, "What the country needs is another Roosevelt."

"And here he is," continued Norris, turning toward Mr. Roosevelt who stood beside him, "the governor of New York, the next President of the United States."

Responding, Roosevelt asserted, "Our cause is common. I welcome your support. I honor myself in honoring you."

"ROOSEVELT GALA DAY" PLANNED FOR GOVERNOR

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 29 (AP).—A "Roosevelt Gala Day" at which Governor Roosevelt has been invited to speak has been arranged in Dutchess county by friends and neighbors of the Democratic nominee.

Prisoner Remanded Back to Napanoch

County Judge Traver, in Wednesday afternoon court session at Napanoch, remanded back to the Napanoch House of Correction a prisoner who had been released from Napanoch House of Correction through a writ of habeas corpus.

The prisoner, who had been released from Napanoch over the term of 180 days to which he was originally sentenced, had been arrested on a charge of petty larceny in Madison county and before a justice of the peace entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to 180 days in the Madison county jail. After being there a short time he was arrested and committed to Napanoch by the county judge. This was held by the county judge as illegal.

Judge Traver held that the county judge had jurisdiction and that an inmate at Napanoch might be held in the institution by renewed commitments so long as he remained a mental defective. He dismissed the writ and remanded the petitioner back to the institution.

Storm Whirling On Toward Jamaica

Havana, Sept. 29 (AP).—The tropical storm which badly damaged San Juan and other portions of Puerto Rico Monday night was whirling on toward Jamaica today, but it had lost most of its intensity, the Cuban national observatory said in a storm bulletin issued late last night.

At 7 p. m. the storm's center was half way between the eastern extremity of Jamaica and the western end of Haiti, the bulletin said, and it was moving westward.

"We now characterize it as merely a cyclonic disturbance," it said, which may, however, regain its force at any moment.

Other islands of the West Indies over which the storm passed felt its force only slightly. A high wind and a heavy rain swept the Dominican republic and there was heavy damage to crops, but no lives were lost, as far as could be learned.

Haiti felt the force of the wind, but the storm spent its force in the high mountains around the city of Port au Prince. The Virgin Islands reported no heavy damage.

Judge Clearwater Appointed Delegate

Acting Governor Lehman has appointed Judge Clearwater to represent the state of New York at the sixty-second annual congress of the American Prison Association, to be held at Washington on October 6.

The Judge for eighteen years has been the vice-president of the New York State Probation Commission, a member of the Advisory Council of the American Probation Commission, and was district attorney of Ulster county for nine years. He has as well written several papers relative to the reformation of offenders. His article on the "Reformation of Law," which appeared in the North American Review was reprinted to the extent of some 6,000 copies for general distribution.

Dr. Smith Will Be Church Visitor

The members of the Wurts Street Baptist Church will have a rare treat Sunday morning next, October 2, for the Rev. John E. Smith, D. D., of Syracuse, will be present and preach the sermon. Dr. Smith is the chief executive of the New York State Baptist Convention.

Dr. Smith is not coming to appeal for money, but to preach the Gospel and also, to make the acquaintance of the Wurts Street Baptist Church people. The pastor hopes that every member of the church and congregation will strive to be present.

The communion service will be postponed for one week because of the coming of Dr. Smith.

Epstein Appointed Solicitor General

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 29 (AP).—The appointment of Henry Epstein, first assistant attorney general, to the office of solicitor general of New York state was announced today by Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr.

Epstein secured prominently in the attorney general's investigation of the racketeering of the late Jack "Legs" Diamond and his gang in Greene county and in the trial of some members of the gang. He was appointed to replace the late Charles T. Daves, who died a short time ago. Daves was first to hold the office, which was created in 1907. The solicitor general's salary is $11,000 a year.

Larger Crowd At Second Series Game In Yankee Stadium

Yankee Stadium, New York, Sept. 29 (AP).—As the clouds cleared for the second game of the series between the Yankees and the Cubs, the crowd poured down the bleachers and onto the field.

By 11 a. m. only an hour after the bleachers entrances were thrown open there was almost as big a crowd in the right field stands, the home of Babe Ruth's followers, as gathered there all day yesterday.

The customers moved steadily into the right field stands and such a display of enthusiasm indicated a much greater attendance for the second game than the sparse 11,000 that saw the first.

Shortly before noon the Yankees streamed from their dugout to be greeted by the hordes of the bleacher patrons. After warming throwing arms they drafted Mervyn Hoag, substitute outfielder with the smallest feet in baseball, to pitch to the batters.

Hoag might have been one of the cutthroats of yesterday for the manner in which the Yankee slugger assaulted him.

The Cubs took over the field at 12:30 p. m. with Charley Root pitching to the first batter.

Manager Grimm's starting pitcher today had already been determined in young Lon Warneke, the crack youngster, right handed, who led the National League this season.

Grimm decided on two changes in the Cubs' lineup, one of them depending upon Gomez starting for the Yanks.

Mark Koenig's left wrist, damaged sliding into third base yesterday, was so sore in practice that it was definitely decided to replace him with Bill Jurges at shortstop. Frank Bennehan, young outfielder, was selected to replace Johnny Moore in center for the sole purpose of getting a right hand hitter in there in place of Moore, who swings from the left side of the plate.

There was some question of Bill Dickey's ability to catch for the Yanks. He hurt his knee slightly yesterday and it was still painful today. He told manager McCarthy that he wanted to play, but Joe took time to think things over. His alternate catcher is Arndt Jorgensen, the only native Norwegian in the major leagues.

Today's line-up:

Cubs: Herman, 2b; English, 3b; Cuyler, 1f; Stephenson, 1b; Demaree, cf; Grimm, 1b; Hartnett, cf; Jurges, ss; Warneke, 1b.

First Inning, Cubs: The hand struck up the National Anthem as the Yankees galloped out on the field.

The opening picture was a big contrast to yesterday's gloomy getaway. Herman up. Strike one, swinging at a curve. Herman drove a double down the third base line.

English up. Ball one, low. Ball two, inside. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two into the screen. English hit to Combs. Herman held second.

Cuyler up. Ball one, inside. Cuyler bounced to Crosetti and was safe on the young shortstop's fumble. Herman stopped at third.

Stephenson up. Ball one, inside. Strike one, into the dirt. Strike two called. Gomez threw to first. Stephenson popped to Combs and Herman raced home after the catch. Cuyler remained at first.

Demaree up. Ball one, inside. Strike one, called. Foul, strike two, into the upper deck. Ball two, wide. Demaree flied out to Ruth.

BREAK.

Shokan, Sept. 29.—The regular meeting of the Shokan Volunteer Fire Association will be held in the village hall on Monday evening, October 3. The annual election of officers will take place at the business session.

Jay Smith of Port Chester was a business caller in Shokan last Monday.

Samuel Friedman, one of the staff of chemists at the board of water supply laboratory, has invested in a new model Oldsmobile sedan. Sam's new acquisition is rigged out with all the latest gadgets, including an ash receiver set in the dash, also what is probably the last word in cigar lighters.

Samuel DuBois, the Ashokan garage and automobile dealer, sold the car to Mr. Friedman.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Gorman are numbered among the members of Shokan's summer colony who are remaining here through the early autumn. The Gormans are one of the few families on Church Hill whose wells have not gone dry; the dus well at their residence, formerly the Reformed Church parsonage, still has about four feet of water in it.

Arthur Merrill of Kingston was a business caller here last Monday morning.

A local wedding of September 29, 1932, was that which united Wesley Buley and Louise Perry, both of the northeastern section of the town of Olive. The ceremony was performed at the home of Elva Bogart by Elder Jacob Winchell of the Olive-Hurley Baptist Church. Mr. Buley was a Civil War veteran, having enlisted in Company B, 120th Regiment, on June 11, 1864. Mr. Bogart, at whose home the wedding took place, was the father of the late Elva Bogart of Kingston.

Edward Leyder is harvesting a fine crop of field corn on the Kerkeler place where he resides. Ed was successful with his crops this season despite the extremely dry growing weather and the handicap of a recently mended broken leg.

Sam Boyer of Washingtonville, Pa., was a business caller here last Monday. Mr. Boyer, who is a Pennsylvania Dutchman and proud of it, had spent the night with relatives in Kingston.

The first fall meeting of the Shokan Home Bureau will be held at the residence of Mrs. C. A. Winchell on Tuesday afternoon, October 4. A picnic luncheon will be served at one o'clock and a business session will be held at which the plans of the bureau for the fall and winter will be discussed. Every one who is interested in the work of the Home Bureau is invited to be present at the meeting next Tuesday.

Henry Carleson, proprietor of the Tonche Mountain camp and filling station in the east end of the village, is having a two-story business and residence structure erected a few yards west of his lunch room and refreshment stand. The new building is the fourth unit to be erected on the Tonche grounds this year.

Dr. Dumond of Olive Bridge reports that his old reliable spring is still functioning, though many others in the town have played out as a result of the drought.

William Guthrie, who has a summer home on Van Steenburgh Hill, was taken seriously ill on Monday. Mrs. Emma Holden, a trained nurse and next door neighbor of the Guthries, is assisting in the care of the stricken man.

On September 29, 1899, several members of the Olive and Shandaken militia company and their friends attended a big military parade held in Rhinebeck under the direction of Col. J. Wright and George W. Pratt.

The regular quarterly communion services will be held in the Reformed Church on Sunday morning, October 2. The Rev. August Pfaus, pastor of the church, will officiate on this sacramental occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Casablanca, who were guests at the home of Nelson Bell during a part of the summer, have returned to the village and are again sojourning at the Bell residence.

J. S. Moore, proprietor of the Orchard Lunch camp and refreshment stand in the west end, reports a satisfactory season's business at his place. The Moores are still entertaining several city guests each week-end at their camp.

Earl Brundage, Elwyn Winchell and Alonzo Haver were subpoenaed as witnesses in the Bardin automobile accident case which was heard in Kingston on Wednesday, September 23. The trial grew out of a collision at the corner store several months ago in which Mr. Bardin's commercial car was wrecked by another car driven by an out of town man.

Butterbuts are plentiful this year, especially in the Butterbuck valley where a majority of the butterbuck trees remaining in the north reservoir section are found.

Barton Cudde, who with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eignor, removed from the lower village to Pine Hill recently, was the guest last Saturday of his cousin, John Adelt. Barton expects to retain his membership in the Shokan troop of Boy Scouts, an outfit in which he has been active for several years.

Arnold Dickinson, one of Poughkeepsie's bustling young business men, was in Shokan last Monday.

The "Shokan" state highway sign, which for a year stood along the north boulevard at a point between DuBois's garage and J. K. DuBois's residence, has been placed along Route 29, a few hundred feet west of the Joseph Aitken residence. The new location of the marker, though somewhat more correct than the other one, is still in the wrong place, as it is generally conceded that the imaginary line between Shokan and Ashokan lies somewhere between Haver's garage and Nelson Bell's house. However, as the sign probably will not be moved again, regardless of what is said about the matter, let us accept it as a fairly accurate identification of the east approach to our fair burg and forget about it.

Apples are a good crop here this year and it is not thought that our folks will find it necessary to get their winter's supply from peddlers, as was the case last fall, when most of the trees in this section were barren of the fruit. The larger part of the McIntosh apples have been picked and farmers are now centering their attention on the Baldwin, Greenings, Northern Spys and other old fashioned varieties which have so long been grown successfully in Olive.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. C. Longyear have completed arrangements for their departure by bus early next week to Albuquerque, New Mexico, where they expect to make their home. The Longyears have many friends in Olive who regret to see them leave Shokan.

There are 23 children attending Principal Lena Burgher's classes at the Shokan school at the present time, as against 15 pupils in attendance at the close of the last spring term. The two children of Mr. and Mrs. Burtis Wheat are the most recent additions to the membership roll, they having come into the school following the Wheat family's removal here from District No. 4, last week.

Boy Scout Financial Drive Starts Oct. 7

Plans for the annual finance campaign to raise funds for the support of scouting in the Ulster-Greene Council are already well under way, although the campaign does not start until Monday, October 17.

C. Ray Everett has agreed to act as chairman for the campaign in the city of Kingston and has appointed the following majors to have charge of the work in the three districts into which the city has been divided: Uptown, Herbert Thomas; mid-town, John Schwenk; downtown, Conrad Heiselman. The majors are now selecting their team captains and each captain will enlist a force of at least 30 workers to assist him in thoroughly covering his district.

Scout Executive Wright states that he finds an exceptionally fine spirit towards scouting prevailing throughout the two counties composing the Council. Nearly every district is organized for the campaign and the chairmen in some communities have already sent in to the Kingston office their list of workers.

Chairman W. J. Clark of the Athens district was the first to select and send in his list of workers, while Walkill, of which Charles Runk, Jr., is chairman, was a close second.

Ulster County Apple Production

The harvest of Ulster county apples is rapidly nearing completion according to a statement just issued by the Farm Bureau. The crop of all varieties is fairly good, except Baldwins which are very light. Many Baldwin orchards do not have any apples. Practically all of the McIntosh have been harvested. Greenings are being picked and the limited Baldwin harvest will start soon.

According to the last Federal Census Ulster county produces over 500,000 bushels of apples each year and the volume is increasing due to the large percentage of young orchards. There are only five other counties in all of New York state that produce more apples than Ulster; they are Wayne, Monroe, Orleans, Niagara and Columbia.

The quality of the apples is very good but the dry weather has reduced the total crop. In most sections the size of apples has been affected by the drought. The prevailing prices are very low and apples of many varieties and of good quality are now available. The Farm Bureau suggests that all consumers demand Ulster County apples and store an ample supply for winter use.

Nothing Venture

by Patricia Wentworth

CHAPTER 31
 A VOICE FROM THE DARK
 JERVIS waited. He had not asked Nan whether she would mind if he were dead. When he had been wishing it with all his heart for a long time, she drew a sobbing breath.

"I'm sorry," he said. "I'm not used to anyone—minding about me."
 She looked round at him then with something in her eyes which blotted out everything that he had thought or believed about her before this night. It was something quite impossible to mistake. There were tears in her eyes, and behind them a shining.
 He sat up in confusion, went over to the bed table, poured out a glass of water, and came back with it in his hand. Nan took it gratefully, but her hand shook. He found him self smiling at her. She drank about half the water and gave him the glass again. When she spoke, it was in her natural voice.

"I'm all right now," she said.

 "Thank you, Jervis." Then, after the slightest pause, "I'm all right now—it's gone." She threw out her hand with a childish gesture. "Oh, isn't it lovely when bad dreams go like that?"
 "It's quite gone?"
 "Yes."
 "Can you go to sleep again?"
 She said, "I'll read."
 "Have you got a book?"
 "Yes."
 He stood there, not knowing quite what to do. He felt as if he had never seen her before, and yet as if he had known her all his life. He said, "Nan," in a tone which she had not heard from him before.
 She pushed back her hair and smiled at him.
 "I'm really all right now. I'm dreadfully sorry I woke you."
 "Would you like me to leave the door open?"
 "Oh, no—I've got Bran."
 A perfectly absurd anger flared up in him. She had Bran, had she? Well, let her have Bran! He certainly hadn't the slightest desire to force himself upon her. He frowned, said good-night in a stifled voice, and strode to the door. As he shut it he caught a glimpse of her settling herself against her pillows.
 His room seemed very dark. He went over to the bed and sat on the edge of it, watching the line of light under the door through which he had just come. His spirit of anger died. He was moved and puzzled.
 He could not remember anyone having cried for him before. It moved him a good deal that Nan should have cried for him this afternoon. She had, out on the dusty grass and cried because she thought he was dead. It was an astonishing thing to have happened; and Spike Howard, police instructor, acrobat and strongman, keeps fit by giving blood to persons who need it. He believes that an occasional loss of a pint or two of blood has some rejuvenating effect on him. In addition to giving away blood, he also drinks it. He drinks a quart of blood from a fresh killed calf, when it is available, after each transfusion. Howard gives from a half pint to 2½ pints at each transfusion. He once was bled from both arms at the same time for two different patients. The average man's body contains about 5.3 quarts of blood. Howard estimates that he has given away 20 gallons—80 quarts—of blood, or more than 15 times as much as the average man has in his entire body.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS
 Three total strangers were enjoying a conversation in a Tamworth, N.Y., hotel when a bellboy walked through the lobby paging "Mr. Fred Huntress." All three men responded—they were all named Fred Huntress. They bore no relationship to each other. One lived in Tamworth, another in Lynn, Mass., and the third in Freedom, N.H.

Even airplane wings are now being wrapped in cellophane. It is not an effort to keep them fresh or clean, but to insulate metal parts from chemicals in the outer coat of "dope."

Piles Go Quick

No Suffering—No Cutting

Thousands who have itching, bleeding or protruding piles have not yet learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither surgery nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are faulty. The blood which feeds the piles must be purified. To get rid of piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, drive out the stuck impure blood, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Lovelock, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-BOLD, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with success in over 500 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money back guarantee.

HEM-BOLD has been given such a wonderful record of success in this city that McBride Drug Store and all good druggists invite you to try HEM-BOLD and experience money refunded if it does not end your Pile misery.

OTTO HILLIG TO SPEAK AT HIGHLAND LIONS CLUB

Otto Hillig, Liberty photographer who jumped into the international spotlight in the summer of 1931 when with Holger Heitris he negotiated a transoceanic flight from this country to Denmark, will be the guest speaker at Monday night's meeting of the Highland Lions Club, according to arrangements made by George A. Yeager, first vice president of the club, who will have charge of the meeting.

Mr. Hillig has related his experiences many times but never in this section, and his talk will embrace the high spots of his aerial venture, from the time he conceived the idea of the flight until its completion and both he and Heitris were knighted by the King of Denmark.

Mr. Hillig and Mr. Yeager were friends in Liberty for ten years, the latter being with Mr. Hillig in Washington, Delaware, on the day of the purchase of the Beltsville monoplane, "Liberty," in which the flight to the Danish capital was negotiated. If the weather is favorable, Mr. Hillig will fly to Highland from Liberty for the Lions Club meeting.

COL. JENKINS SPEAKS TO TRIANGLE CLUB

Colonel Jenkins of the Salvation Army, who is spending ten days in Kingston, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Kingston Triangle Club Tuesday evening at the Y. M. C. A.

Adjutant Wood of the local corps introduced Colonel Jenkins who proved himself to be a most eloquent speaker and held the close attention of his hearers with his telling stories of the splendid work done by the Salvation Army.

Pearl Carey, member of the Y. M. C. A. Board of Directors, was the guest of William H. Moller, Jr.

Next week Coach Kim of the Kingston High School will be the speaker and will take as his subject one that will interest every member.

BUDGET BLUFFING

A city finance director, turning in the department's estimate for funds needed to run the city next year, asked for a large increase in allowance. Other estimates from other departments have also shown this surprising tendency to ask for more than was used last year. The finance director summed up the reasons: "This doesn't mean anything. We don't expect to get it."

It is a common enough attitude toward public finances in all government units from the smallest to the federal government. Ask for more than we need, is the official slogan, and then we may get what we want even after cuts are made. It is a poor way to plan budgets. It leaves the final amounts to the results of more bargaining and scheming. It seems to do away with any necessity for careful planning of expenditures with economy and efficiency in mind. It is a practice which ought to be stopped.

If ever there was a time when budget estimates should be accurate and honest and planned to arouse public confidence, this is it. Such procedure doubtless presents a hard task to officials accustomed to handling the matter in the old obscure way, but they should be compelled to try it.

WHAT YOUR HEART CAN DO

With every beat of the heart about 3 or 4 ounces of blood is pumped out, which would make the total output of the heart about 7 quarts a minute.

Dr. A. V. Hill reports the case of a runner which he studied, where the blood flow must have been 35 quarts a minute, or five times as much as when he was at rest. Instead of 3 or four ounces being pumped with each beat there must have been 6 or 7 ounces.

These figures teach us that the heart is capable of a tremendous amount of work if it is in a healthy or normal condition.

The heart rate of the trained athlete may, during his best effort, reach three times the average normal rate.

When you work or take exercise the heart not only pumps the blood faster but actually pumps more with each beat than when you are at rest.

If you work regularly or take exercise regularly for a certain period you will find at the end of the period, six weeks or six months as the case may be, that your heart beats a few strokes less per minute when you are at rest than it did before you undertook the exercise, and does not beat as many times to the minute with extreme exercise.

Thus with a heart 76 at rest and beating 160 with extreme exercise, you will find that after a "training period" of a few months the heart will beat 70 to 72 at rest, and only about 132 with extreme exercise.

The heart beats away without any thought or action on your part. It is like breathing. However if you are willing to take a little exercise daily you can actually train your heart to do better work for you.

It has been my privilege for a number of years to examine most of the outstanding boxers—Dempsey, Carpenter, Walker, Grab, Dundee, and others, and lately the outstanding wrestlers—Lewis, Sonnenberg, London, De Glane, Steele, George, and others.

What do we find?
 All these men have normal "slow" hearts ranging from 72 down to 60 beats a minute.

What does this increased heart power mean to you?
 Your doctor will tell you that in any severe illness—pneumonia, appendicitis, typhoid fever—it is on the heart, the strength of the heart in the majority of cases that your life depends.

A little morning exercise—three or four minutes of bending exercises with knees straight—and a ten minute walk daily, will not only make you feel better all round physically, but may be the means of saving your life should illness overtake you.

STOCK PSYCHOLOGY

Since stock prices started up again a few weeks ago, there has been a notable tendency for prices to outrun business gains. Recent stock quotations have been obviously based less on statistics than on psychology. This is natural. There are far more stockholders in the United States than ever before. Recent figures show that the spread of ownership in the larger corporations has gained 40 per cent in the last two years. These investors have mostly bought somewhere near the bottom. They are all eager for a rise in value, and mostly optimistic. Their optimism communicates itself to the market. New investors continue to pour in their savings, in buying waves that may be based on any plausible reason, and it all helps along the bull movement.

In this situation, with so many people feeling richer every day, the market rises, and with pay-

Shouldering New Ideas

Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild

The tie-up slipper "scarf" which almost suggests a blouse is illustrated at the left. The hat, twisted and tipped to an extreme angle over one eye, is made of white dotted red silk to match the scarf with its front neckline slit to give the adjustable feature, but both accessories are capable of adaptation in woollens or wispy rough silks.

Leotards are credited with the knitted Radnor woolen scarf which is a caplet at the back, and slit into four tie ends at the front, to be worn at the wearer's choice either both tied round the body or with one set fastened into a bowknot under the chin, indicated, of course, for the furthest coast.

An evening scarf, the striped wine and flesh velvet one shown, is lined with soft flesh pink. In back there is a point, and one end may button on to the frock while the other may be twisted in all sorts of ways.

Nothing more elaborate than old-time knitted cotton, such as old ladies used to knit into interminable "face cloths," is the neckwear band shown at the extreme right of the group. This has a stripe worked out in lacy knit every so often. It is long enough to slip under the belt at the back of the dress and cross demurely under the belt of the front.

Fall Frocks Have Full Sleeves

New York—One's new fall costume is not at all likely to pass by unnoticed, or worse still to be mistaken for a "has been"—not that it is as puffed sleeves. Those who shook their heads and said "they will never wear them" are being forced to acknowledge themselves wrong. Puffed sleeves are being worn and right out in the bright daylight, too.

The good old Victorian custom of gathering the sleeve into the arm hole has been revived by the fashion for, but the fulness is more subtly applied in the majority of cases. The model shown is a bit extreme, excepting for young America, but it is interesting none the less.

When the fall race meet opened at Belmont Park it was discovered that the puffed sleeve was decidedly among the winners. Rough silks and rough surfaced woollens were also found to be great favorites. Black costumes, with white collars and sometimes with white cuffs as well were chosen by women whose taste in costumes is carefully watched. These women almost invariably chose a turban as the "first" fall hat. These were either trimmed in centre front by an ornament or by one of those new rakish bows that are so flattering to some and so ridiculous on others. The bows were more often over one eye than centered, which brings to mind the new edict that hats are going straight. They are recovering their balance and being worn level instead of at a perilous angle—that is some of them are. One need not feel bound to take these councils too literally. We naturally report the newest angle, which in this particular instance is no angle at all—merely a level.

Broad shoulders, higher neckline and waistline are the features of this dress of bright pebbly woolen. The first point is obtained by big puffs, over long, tight-fitting sleeves, which are embroidered, as in the neckline, with fine braid; the second is achieved by the round collar line, which is slightly raised from the throat, and its fastening at back, while the third point is given by the crossed hands at front.

Tunics Prove a Good Tonic

The tunic dress as shown in certain openings was accepted. Considering it in formal fashions only, it has a certain dignity—which recommends it for the woman who wants a fashion which looks important rather than young.

As it is being done in two fabrics, as for example velvet and satin, velvet and rough crepe, ermine velvet and satin, or in velvet only, it makes a rich type of afternoon or dinner dress, and in two colors or black and white, it offers interesting variety and novelty.

Rondout Churches Plan Union Services

Millions of Christian church members will observe "A Week of Penitence and Prayer" next week, beginning Sunday. In Kingston the Rondout churches will hold union services every evening during the week except Saturday and Sunday as follows: Monday, October 3, at Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring street. The Rev. O. E. Brandorff, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, will speak on the topic assigned for that day, "Penitence". On Tuesday evening, at the Rondout Presbyterian Church, Dr. Deming, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, will speak on "Confession". On Wednesday the service will be held at the Wurts Street Baptist Church. The message on "Acknowledging God's Sovereignty" will be given by the Rev. James Armstrong, pastor of Rondout Presbyterian Church. On Thursday, the service will be held at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. The Rev. William Pretzsch, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, will speak on the topic, "Prayer". On Friday evening at Trinity M. E. Church, Dr. C. Smith, pastor of Wurts Street Baptist Church, will speak on the topic, "Consecration".

All services will begin at 7:50 p. m. and will not exceed an hour in duration. There will be no lengthy sermons or special musical numbers, for the emphasis will be upon prayer. To assist the church members in the observance of the week a leaflet containings suggested Scripture readings, meditations and prayers for the days of the week are being distributed in this way the members will be assisted in observing the week.

Chest Clinics To Be Held In City

The local health officers have requested Katherine Murphy, Ulster county public health nurse, to assist in the work of arranging five consultation chest clinics at convenient places in the county.

Details regarding the time and place of these clinics will be published later and physicians will be given admission cards for patients whom they wish to refer.

The State Department of Health has agreed to furnish the services of two expert examiners and X-ray machine with operator.

Although there has been an encouraging decline in the tuberculosis death rate, the disease still assumes an important place in the economic and social life of our people. Like other diseases, its diagnosis is necessary before proper treatment may be instituted. The earlier it is diagnosed, the greater the chance for recovery. Symptoms referable to the chest may be caused by diseases other than tuberculosis. The cause of symptoms should be determined. In many cases this cannot be done without the assistance of the X-ray.

COAL DISCOUNT ANNOUNCEMENT

The approach of cold weather brings the matter of heating the home into great importance. The household budget will soon be called upon to provide for an additional burden that was not present during the warm Summer months. How to arrange for this will be a problem of many families.

WE STAND READY TO HELP YOU KEEP YOUR HOME WARM THIS WINTER AND SAVE YOU 80 CENTS A TON ON YOUR FULL REQUIREMENTS PURCHASED FROM THIS TIME UNTIL NEXT APRIL.

Instead of filling your bins—which would necessitate the payment of a considerable amount within 30 days in order to earn the 80 cents a ton discount—we stand ready to spread deliveries over the Winter to permit you to take your coal in such amounts as you can conveniently pay for before the discount period expires.

Of course, this puts an added burden on us, for we will have to make more trips to your home, but we are willing to assume this expense as our contribution to help you meet the abnormal conditions now prevailing.

In order to make this plan possible, we are not able to grant credit beyond thirty days in any case; therefore, at the time you place your order, tell your coal dealer to deliver such an amount as you can conveniently pay for in 30 days.

O. P. Convention Active on Friday

Kingston, N. Y., Sept. 29 (AP)—The annual convention of the Republican State Committee, which will nominate a candidate for Governor early next week, will start tomorrow morning with the arrival of Lathrop, Chairman of the State Committee.

On Gleason's heels will come Chairman W. Kingston May, another leader, prepared to get things under way promptly at 11 o'clock Monday morning.

GUARANTEED RELIEF FOR DIZZY SPELLS

No more dizziness. No more giddiness. No more giddiness on your head. No more headaches. No more dizziness of the kind from a poor, sick, tired stomach. A tablespoonful of Dore's Peppin before meals will end your stomach misery in no time. Money back, says Maben & Walker, if time it fails.

GOLD'S RELIABLE SHOP

322 Wall Street
Will Be Closed All Day
SATURDAY

Reopens
Friday Morning.

Representative Hamilton Fish, as temporary chairman, will make the keynote speech at the convention held under way Monday. That night the delegates will hear from Chairman May in the permanent chairman's address. Meanwhile committees will get to work on the platform and resolutions.

Thursday's session will start when the platform committee is ready to report, probably about 11:30 a. m. Immediately afterward there will be the nominations. Friends of Colonel William J. Donovan of Buffalo have freely predicted the selection of their candidate. Strong opposition has been promised, however, by the supporters of F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War, who insist they will accept "nothing but the governorship for Davison."

On Tuesday night at 6:45 o'clock the candidates will speak, their remarks being broadcast by radio.

GERMANY POSTPONES ITS DEBT PAYMENT.

Washington, Sept. 29 (AP)—Germany has postponed a $7,500,000 debt payment, but so far as official notices go, the treasury still expects to collect $123,500,000 from other foreign nations in December.

Announcement by Secretary Mills that Germany will delay a $4,500,000 mixed claims payment and a $3,000,000 installment due on American Army of Occupation costs, today brought debt payment postponed this year to a total of $9,052,000.

Previously, Estonia, Latvia and Poland had given the required 90-day notice that they would be unable to make payments of $1,352,000 on December 15.

SEVERAL GOOD THINGS

SALAD Dressings are a food across every which we find a daily necessity and when one presents one that is different we call it with joy.

Scal Cream Dressing.

Mix together one tablespoonful of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth teaspoonful of pepper and one-half cupful of vinegar. Stir until smooth. Add one cupful of sour cream, stir over water in a double boiler until it begins to boil. Remove from the fire immediately. If sour milk is used add two tablespoonfuls of olive oil and cook as above.

Oysters on Toast.

Clean one pint of oysters, heat to the boiling point in their own liquor. Cook three tablespoonfuls butter, two tablespoonfuls flour and one cupful cream until smooth and creamy; season with salt and cayenne. Add the oysters and one beaten egg yolk. Pour over buttered toast or crackers. Two tablespoonfuls of mushrooms added will improve the flavor of the dish.

Veal a la King.

Take two pounds of lean veal, cut into cubes about one inch square. Add water to cover after it has been well browned in one-fourth cupful of butter. Add six medium-sized carrots, two onions, one sweet pepper—all minced; one bay leaf, four cloves and cook until the meat is tender. Keep enough water to make a pint of liquor during the cooking. Add one quart of scalded sweet cream thickened as for gravy, add one can of mushrooms cut fine and one can of sifted peas. Season to taste with salt and paprika and serve on noodles.

A dairy and pretty as well as an easy dessert is prepared thus: Bake small cupcakes, cover with thin slices of candy bar—any with or without nuts. Pour a hot custard over them or a lemon sauce. Serve hot or cold. Cut cake into layers with sliced candy bar between, serve with whipped cream or any desired sauce.

U. S. Finds Stone Walls Do Not a Prison Make

Washington.—The federal government is becoming more inclined every day to trust prisoners and place them in unvalled camps instead of prisons.

The prison division of the Department of Justice reports that in the two and a half years since the establishment of the unvalled camps 6,678 persons have been confined in them. Although the guards are unarmed, there have been only 161 escapes from such camps. Of those 131 were recaptured.

Two Bites of Cop, $10

New York.—Mitzel, pet dog of Mrs. Nita Margo of New York city wanted some of a policeman's beef stew in a restaurant. The officer wouldn't give him any, so the dog took two bites of the policeman.

Mrs. Margo was fined $5 a bite by Magistrate Maurice Gottlieb.

Martins Make Home in Traveling Crane

Longview, Wash.—For three successive years two martins have made their nest and raised their families of young birds in a closet on a hammer crane on the Long-Bell Lumber company dock, totally disregarding the fact that the crane travels up and down the dock a distance of a half mile a day. The mother and father birds show no annoyance when workmen enter the closet—more than 50 times daily—and fondle the young fledglings.

The martins are believed to be a species known as "coffee birds," native of Brazil.

JUPITER AND VENUS HOLD STAGE IN OCTOBER MORNING SKY SHOW

By ROBERT H. BAKER

(Professor of Astronomy, University of Illinois)

Urbana, Ill. (AP)—Many persons who observed the total solar eclipse of August 31 noticed the bright star not far to the right of the eclipsed sun. This star-like object now is visible in the eastern sky at dawn. It is not a star in fact but the great planet Jupiter.

Jupiter has moved only a little way from its place among the stars at the time of the eclipse. It is the brilliant object not far below the Sickle of Leo. This planet requires 12 years to complete its circuit eastward among the constellations.

The Sun circles eastward around the heavens once a year. It now has progressed beyond Leo far enough so that the Sickle and triangle of stars which mark this constellation come into view in the east before the sky grows bright in the morning.

Venus Stands Out

But Jupiter is not the brightest object in the morning sky. Above it and also a little above the handle of the Sickle there is a star-like object nearly ten times as bright. This is Venus, the morning star.

Venus is moving eastward across Leo faster than Jupiter. It will be interesting to those who watch the morning sky to see it gradually overtake Jupiter until on the 20th of the month these two planets, the most brilliant in the heavens, will be remarkably close together.

Earth Near Path Of Meteors
As the early riser surveys this conjunction of the planets he may well wonder whether next month will bring a third fine exhibit in this region of celestial spectacles—a display of Leonid meteors.

The earth will pass near the path of these meteors about the middle of November. It is impossible to say

Jupiter and Venus will attract the attention of sky gazers during the early morning hours of October. They will be close together on October 20, as the chart above shows.

In advance whether there will be at that time a shooting star or whether the sky will blaze with these celestial fireworks as it did in 1833 and 1867, when superstitious persons feared the world was coming to an end.

October is a favorable month to see the zodiacal light in the morning sky. It is a ghostly glow which appears above the eastern horizon for an hour or two before dawn, broad at the base it tapers upward leaning toward the south.

A clear moonless sky and the absence of artificial lights are required to make the zodiacal light plainly visible. Astronomers believe that this glow is sunlight reflected from many small bodies revolving around the sun within the earth's orbit.

Telephone Care

Telephone mouthpieces should be wiped every other day with a cloth soaked in a mild solution of a reliable disinfectant. Methylated spirit can be used if there is nothing else.

Uncle Eben

"Dat fortune teller told me I was ginter git rich," said Uncle Eben. "Of course, I don't exactly believe all she says. But I respect her for her fine ideas."—Washington Star.

Bound to Clear

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

MY FRIEND: Tom Wall ain't at all at all.

For Levi's letter here. It's dark today, but anyway, Tom says "It's bound to clear."

That's just a note that Tom Wall wrote.

(About a deal we had) That did not whine, without a line That said the times were bad.

When skies of blue get gray (they do). Some men set down and quit. They might work on all clouds are gone.

But that, of course, takes grit. It's easier to say, "No, sir, it ain't no time to buy— It's rained cats and dogs, and that's No time to sell, or try."

He ain't (Tom Wall) that way at all. If it's too wet to plow, He'll build a bin to put things in A little while from now. It's rained before, will rain some more, And then the harvest's here. The world's all wet, but Tom's all set.

"The skies are bound to clear."

GRAPE JELLY WEEK!

Save 2 1/2¢ PER GLASS on your Grape Jelly

The cheapest, most delicious grapes of the year are crowding the local markets. So read below how you can make jelly quicker and cheaper than ever this year . . . and then go to your grocer at once.

By Mrs. F. W. Bateman
ILLINOIS STATE JELLY CHAMPION

"I just hate to think of women still making jelly and jam the old-fashioned long-boil method. It's so costly. And so terribly tedious!"

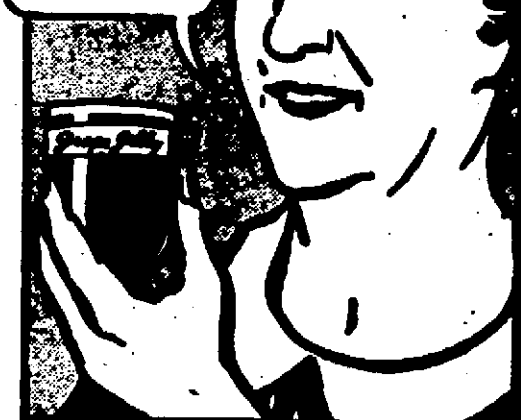

"I make all my prize-winning jellies and jams with Certo. And I would never think of doing it any other way."

"In the first place, Certo reduces boiling time for grape jelly, for instance, to 1/2 minute. And, of course, that is how it saves me so much money. For, with so little boiling needed, not one bit of the fruit juice has time to boil away. And as a result I usually get fully 5 more glasses from the same amount of fruit . . . and save as much as 2 1/2¢ on every glass."

"Of course, this 1/2 minute of hard boiling also saves me lots of time, too. Indeed it takes me only 11 or 12 minutes from the time I put my fruit and sugar mixture on until the time my finished jelly is cooling in the glasses."

"And with Certo you get much better tasting jelly or jam, too. Certainly the 37 prizes the State Fair Judges

NONE OF MY GRAPE JUICE BOILS AWAY IN COSTLY STEAM!

Mrs. Bateman is only one of the many State Fair jelly and jam prize winners who are making all their blue ribbon jellies and jams. Indeed, Certo gives such convincing results that today nearly half the jelly makers in America are using it. Why not try it yourself? It will save you lots of money!

awarded my jellies and jams in the last two years testify to that!"

Why don't you do as Mrs. Bateman suggests and order a supply of Certo today—with your grapes and other jelly making supplies? You will be delighted at the money and time it will save you!

And the extra flavor it will give your jellies and jams, too . . . if you will simply follow carefully the Certo recipes that come in the booklet attached to every Certo bottle. So don't delay. In a few days these marvelous grapes may be on the wane.

Get your bottle of Certo from your grocer's today. It is a product of General Foods.

Highland "English" "English as she is spoke" in the remote Highlands is not exactly the tongue of the South. The fact is illustrated by a brief conversation which took place between three Highland gillies, who had a sup each of the laird's own mountain dew. Said Toggal, "That was the very best whiskey her naiseid neifer tested in all her pore tays." "So did I neither," agreed Toggal, and Angus corroborated, "Netther did I too!"

At The Theatres

Kingston: "Downstairs". John Gilbert, the greatest box office attraction in pictures until the arrival of the talkies, stages a real comeback in this gay story he wrote himself, and it should do much toward bringing him back his waning popularity. In this show, Mr. Gilbert plays the part of a rogue instead of the customary hero. As a love-making chauffeur, he gets himself into all kinds of scrapes, from which he extricates himself with the ease and grace of a Casanova. Others in the supporting cast include Virginia Bruce and Paul Lukas.

Orpheum: "Madame Racketeer" and "The Office Girl". Alison Skipworth is the featured player in this laughable story of a lady racketeer who uses her talents to help her own daughter who does not know her. George Haff and Richard Bennett are also in the cast. "Office Girl" is a story of modern business with Renate Miller, Jack Hulbert and Morris Harvey.

Broadway: "Okay America". The American newspaper columnist comes into glorification in this talkie, for although he is a scandal monger and a snoop, his personal charm and nerve win him admiration. In an exciting screen tale, fast moving and melodramatic from start to finish, Lew Ayres, as the chatty columnist who knows every night club and speakeasy in the city as well as the people who haunt them, plays his most convincing role in many months. He happens to bump into a kidnapper while on his beat, offers to act as the go-between, gets double-crossed, and runs into a lot of excitement before everything turns out okay. Good entertainment, Maureen O'Sullivan plays the part of the girl in the story.

Tomorrow: Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "What Price Hollywood" and "Outside the Law". The first is a picture of Hollywood, its manners, its customs, and its people, all done convincingly and entertainingly by Constance Bennett, Lowell Sherman, Neil Hamilton, and Gregory Ratoff.

"Outside the Law" offers Edward G. Robinson and Mary Nolan in a melodramatic tale of crime and criminals.

Broadway: Same.

King's Claim to Fame: Francis I of France has been credited with introducing tapestry weaving into France, establishing a factory at Fontainebleau with Flemish workmen.

Coach Kias Speaks On Football Rules

Madison New Rules Governing Football This Year Will Greatly Benefit The Game.

G. Warren Kias, physical director of the Kingston schools and head football coach of the Kingston High School, spoke on the changes in this year's rules governing football before the members and guests of the Kingston Rotary Club at its mid-week meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday noon. Coach Kias, since taking charge of athletics in Kingston High School, has given the local high school much added prestige in competitive sports. In the last five years, the high school football team under the leadership of Coach Kias has finished in second place in the DUSO League three times, while the baseball team won the DUSO League championship three years, and finished in second place the other two years. In basketball, the Kingston High School team headed the league for three straight years. His record as a successful coach of the three major sports in Kingston during the past five years includes six first places and six second places in the DUSO League standings, which is an accomplishment considering the fact that the league embraces the counties of Ulster, Dutchess, Sullivan and Orange.

In the opinion of Coach Kias, the new rules governing football this year will greatly benefit the game. The new rulings are for the express purpose of minimizing injuries to players, and will do much to make the game safer for the opposing teams. One of the major rule changes regards substitutions.

"Last year," said Coach Kias, "if a player was taken out during the half, he could not return until the second half. The new ruling makes it possible for a player to enter the game in all four quarters. This rule was adopted so that injured players wouldn't shield their injuries in order to stay in the game."

"Another rule that governs play this year is the one that states when any player carrying the ball touches the ground with any part of his body excepting his arms or legs, the ball is dead, and if the player rises he will be penalized. After if any opposing player tackles him after the ball is dead, he, too, will suffer a penalty. This rule, said Coach Kias, "will alleviate injury to a great extent, because it will keep the players from piling up on an opponent when he is down."

Coach Kias also explained the new knee and elbow guards that are to be used in play this year. These new guards are constructed in such a manner that they will minimize injuries to a great extent.

Following his talk, Coach Kias told the members of the club to ask him any questions pertaining to the new rules for football. The remainder of the program was taken up with these questions and answers.

President Joseph Morgan thanked the speaker for his instructive discussion, and the meeting was adjourned after the members had all joined in singing a closing song led by Songleader Wright. Harry Malsenholder played the piano accompaniment.

There are different grades of eggs—and the cheapest ones are often most costly!
Cheap tea, too, does not give the value and satisfaction of fine tea. For tea is judged and bought by flavor. That is why Lipton's Yellow Label Tea is true economy. It gives you fine tea flavor—

John Smith

By JANE OGDON

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate
(17th St. Service)

AT THE informal little dance in the club house that night Midge Upton was fully aware that a certain other side looking young man, apparently a stranger, was trying to get up enough courage to ask her for a dance. Midge was rather pleased to notice that he did not dance, though it would have been easy enough for him to introduce himself to some of the other men who would present him to more girls than he could possibly dance with. Midge watched him as she danced with the other men. And then she saw him walking toward the door that led out of the club house she told to the very young man with whom she was dancing:

"Oh, please excuse me, just a minute. There goes Mr. Smith. I want to speak to him before he goes."

The very young man released his timorous hold of Midge's slender waist and she danced her way between swaying couples to the young man in question.

"Oh, Mr. Smith, I want to speak to you. You are Mr. Smith, aren't you?"

Much to her surprise the young man said he was. She had intended to say that an aunt by marriage, she didn't want to make the connection too close, had told her that a certain young man named John Smith was going to stop at the hotel and would go over to the club house and had asked her to look for him. She had expected the young man would say that his name was not Smith but that he wished it were, and then she would say she was so sorry she had made the mistake—and he would say he was glad she had, and then she would smile and he would ask her to dance—and after that they would be as well acquainted as if he really were named Smith and her aunt had really asked her to look out for him.

"I have been wondering if you weren't the girl," said Mr. Smith. "You see my aunt said she had heard your aunt speak of you and that you were here and your aunt said she would speak to you about me. My name is John—John Smith."

"And mine is Midge Upton."

"May I have this dance—or what there is left of it?" he said.

Midge was spending the summer holidays with a married sister who had a cottage at the summer resort not far from the hotel where John Smith was staying, and it was quite natural that thereafter Midge and John should spend much time together—natural for John since he was a stranger and natural for Midge since his only serious competitor for Midge's society was the eighteen-year-old Walter.

There were wonderful mornings spent together in the surf, afternoons sailing in Midge's catboat on the bay—evenings dancing together at the club house. Midge introduced John Smith to some of the other girls, but always with a "keep your hands off my property" sort of way, and she never planned any parties where John might get acquainted with them.

Incidentally John fell in love with Midge. He had come to the Marden hotel merely as a resting place in his trip by motor to a spot some two hundred miles further along the shore, where he intended to spend his three weeks of vacation. After he had dined he had strolled over to the club house, when the clerk at the hotel had told him that guests there had the privilege. He hadn't intended to stay, but sight of Midge made him linger.

Then one day—three days before the end of his vacation—he felt that the time had come to tell Midge that he loved her. He was somewhat troubled as he faced the ordeal.

They were sitting on the beach under the protection of Midge's enormous beach parasol which shielded them from the gaze of chance passers-by. Really a very appropriate—if not entirely original—setting for the important declaration.

Reversing the order of procedure that he had planned John Smith first told Midge that he loved her—and asked her to marry him. He was then ready for his confession—but Midge got ahead of him with hers.

"I did a perfectly dreadful thing," she said. "I wanted to know you so much that I made up about my aunt—I've never mentioned her since for fear you would find out I had deceived you. It just happened that I hit the right name—but then Smith is not unusual."

"Still it is not my real name," said her companion. "As a matter of fact my name is Archibald Pepperell—I said I was John Smith for fear—" but the cute little John did not finish.

"Not Archibald Pepperell. You don't mean that you are the nephew of Mrs. Gordon Burke?"

"The name Archibald," he said. "And Mrs. Burke is my aunt's very best friend—I've heard a lot about you—and all the time we have been both blundering we might have been properly introduced."

"Then maybe you'll forgive me," suggested Archibald. "Maybe you'll marry me after all."

"Well, of course," said Midge. "I was rather counting on being Mrs. John Smith for life—not an easy to say Mrs. Archibald Pepperell. I'd always have to spell it out when I have things sent, still."

But Midge got no further with her objections.

Historic Spots in Ohio

Marked for Posterity

Schoonbrunn, Grandfather and Fort Laurens, are historic sites of Tuscarawas county, Iowa. Schoonbrunn is significant as the first settlement in the state. But this settlement, made in 1772, was not permanent. Marietta being the first permanent settlement. Schoonbrunn has been rebuilt, the buildings being constructed of logs on their original sites, following the style of the old ones as closely as possible. The rebuilding was done by the State Historical society and the citizens of New Philadelphia.

Grandfather, seven miles south of Schoonbrunn, stands out in Ohio's history as the scene of the massacre of the Christian Indians, a massacre perhaps unequalled in the history of the Indian wars for its cold blooded butchery. The massacre occurred on March 8, 1762.

Fort Laurens is said to have been the first fort built by Americans within the present boundaries of what is now the state of Ohio. General Meigs built the fort in 1784, on the west bank of the Tuscarawas below Sandy creek, about a mile from the present town of Polk. It was named in honor of Henry Laurens, who was president of congress during 1777 and 1778.

"Flint-Knapping" Oldest

of English Industries?

Huge pits of varying dimensions found in Suffolk, England, are said to be flint pits, some of them thousands of years old. Only one pit is now in active operation, a visitor writes: "The shaft of the pit descended by stages to a depth of some 30 feet. Not a single mechanical contrivance is used for working the pit. Working hours are calculated by the number of candle ends burnt. As far as I could see, the methods of working the pit and trimming—or 'knapping'—the stone were the same as they must have been in prehistoric times, when Brandon provided England's first warriors with their spear heads. I have since discovered that the successive generations of one Brandon family, called Snares, have handed down the traditional craft of flint-knapping for at least 800 years."

To Discourage "Tipping"?

Mugs with a frog model affixed to the bottom on the inside, popularly known as frog mugs, were turned out at the pottery works at Leeds, Sunderland and Nottingham, beginning about 1800. They were made at other English potteries also. The purpose of the frog is a matter of speculation. It might just have been a popular novelty. According to another theory, it might have been instigated by prohibition agitation current even as far back as the early nineteenth century, the idea being to scare the tippler half out of his wits into more temperate ways with the frog deception when he had drunk half of the contents.—Chicago Post.

Ancient Pattern Found

Pieces of cloth and a mica pattern for a patchwork quilt, 200 years old, were found in a drawer built in the wall of an old Colonial house at South Dennis, Mass.

Colonial Silversmith

One of America's first silversmiths, if not the first, was Robert Sanderson, from London, who came to the Massachusetts Bay colony in 1640.

Riding a pony over the 70,000-acre U-Lazy-S ranch in northwest Texas, J. H. Slaughter, Jr. (above), educated at Phillips Exeter and Yale, carries into the third generation the traditions of the "cow-punching Slaughter." Below is a scene in the branding pen as top hand mark the calves.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENE WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuritic pain, sciatic pain, neuritic pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strain and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Banne Bengue (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Banne Bengue by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many imitations, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

John Mohr Continues Grid Career at A. U.

Former High School Star Trains For Second Season At American University's Center—Last Season 1931 Punting and Passing

John Mohr, former star of Kingston High School, captain of the great 1929 eleven and for three years All-Hudson Valley center, is now training for his second season of college football with American University in Washington, D. C., and according to a dispatch received recently from the Capital City, the Eagles will have one of the best teams in the football history of the university.

Mohr is the pivot man, the position he held in high school that brought him the honor of being the best in the Hudson valley for three years. He began his career in his Freshman team and succeeded in playing half the season as varsity center. Then from his Sophomore year on he was the most outstanding in high school football.

As a high school boy he always wanted to be a punter and so practiced kicking to a great extent and has been so successful at the art that last season he dropped back from center to do the punting for A. U. He was also talented in the line of passing. His large hand enables him to handle the pigskin like a baseball with the result that he can toss a pass 40 to 50 yards with ease.

A sports reporter from this paper on a southern trip last fall, saw Mohr in action in the stadium in Richmond, Virginia, against the eleven from a small university in Ashland, Virginia, named Randolph-Macon. The size of the university of the southland doesn't determine the ability of the team for the Ashland school was one of the best southern teams that fall.

However, against the attack of the Macdon warriors, he was a star. The stadium was equipped with a loudspeaker through which was announced the game play by play as to who got the tackles, etc. Well everything on the American defense was Mohr and it so happened that plenty of passing and punting was done that afternoon and so he also stole the limelight on the offense. He is a great football man.

Grid Drill Tonight For Opener Sunday

Manager Louis Kantrowitz of the Kingston Yellow Jackets has announced a practice for this evening at the drill field of the 16th Field Artillery, North Manor avenue, and expects to see every member of the grid squad out for the workout which will be under the direction of Coach Big Bill O'Reilly.

In announcing the practice, Kantrowitz said that he and others interested in the team were very much pleased with the way that the Waspes worked in the drill held last evening. The Yellow Jackets are scheduled to open their season at the Kingston Fair Grounds Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock, playing against the highly touted West Point Artillery eleven.

Manager Kantrowitz, who recently received a letter from Warden Lewis E. Laws of Sing Sing Prison, inviting the Yellow Jackets to play there, is considering taking the Kingston riders down to the stadium at the Big House on Sunday, October 23.

MAUREEN ORCUTT LOSES TO ADA MACKENZIE

Peabody, Mass., Sept. 23 (AP)—Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, today gave the women's national golf championship a major upset by defeating Maureen Orcutt of Haworth, N. J., 2 and 1, for a place in the semi-finals at the Salem Country Club.

Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, a champion five times, put on a great closing surge to overtake Peggy Wadell of Buffalo, and then sweep into another 2 and 1 victory. Mrs. Wadell matched the par of 38 going out and was three up at the turn.

Virginia Van Wie of Chicago pulled out a 3 and 2 victory over Rosalie Knapp of Glen Head, N. Y., after outstriking her all the way.

CUNNINGHAM AGAIN HEAD OF BLEACHERS' LINE

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—With a clear sky and the promise from the weather man of a warm day, a crowd of nearly 5,000 was in line at the bleachers and grand stand entrances of the Yankee Stadium at 9:30 this morning.

At the head of the bleachers' line again stood Bill Cunningham of Kansas City, Mo., who held the same position yesterday for the first game after ten days of waiting.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Sept. 23 (AP)—Stocks moved about quietly in the first hour today, but then turned somewhat reactionary. A few leaders dropped under the previous close.

Trading, however, was very close throughout the earlier hours. Advances of a point by several favorites, including American Telephone and Electric, and Allied Chemical, were either completely lost or substantially shaded. Deport was heavy off a point, and Mark Truck, which made a new high yesterday, also sagged. General Motors was offered rather actively and lost a fraction.

Call money renewed at 3 per cent. Preliminary estimates of freight loadings for the week ended September 24 mentioned a rise of about 15,000 cars, or enough to send the total above 400,000. It was expected the figure would make the best comparison with a year's shipment in many months. Some quarters recalled, however, that the freight movement was approaching the time of the normal seasonal peak and that the same was true of electric power production.

Many brokers thought the stock market's immediate movements would probably be governed by commodity prices, especially wheat. Reports reaching Wall Street recently have indicated the possibility that bullish operations in that grain might be resumed soon.

Yankees Win 1st Series Game From Cubs, 12-6

By EDWARD J. NEEL

Associated Press Sports Writer
New York, Sept. 29. — Thanks to a few more runs than the Cubs, the Yankees won the first game of the world series today, 12-6. The victory was a surprise to many, as the Cubs were favored to win the series.

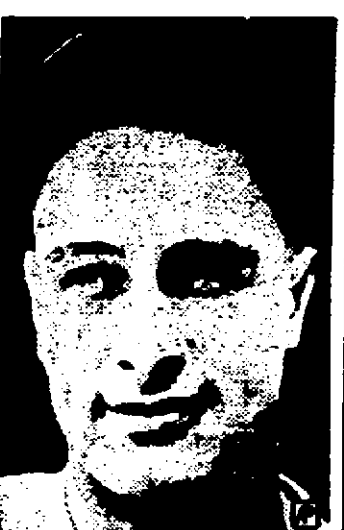

Just when the series was darkest or more ways than one, when it seemed as though the Cubs were well on the way to repeating their last year's triumph, the Yankees won the first game of the series today, 12-6. The victory was a surprise to many, as the Cubs were favored to win the series.

BABE RUTH

It was Ruth, just recovered from a mild attack of appendicitis, who marched to the plate in the third inning with the Cubs leading 2 to 0, and Earle Combs, the first Yankee runner, Bush, allowed on base, reaching on second through the medium of a base on balls and an infield out.

The Babe smashed a long single to right and the gray haired Kentucky colonel raced home. Lou Gehrig, tramped to the plate. The count reached three and two. He laid into the deciding pitch, a "screw" ball on the outside corner, and belted it far on a line into the deep reaches of the right field stands. The Yankees led 3 to 2, and the game might just as well have ended there.

LOU GEHRIG

That home run smash unsettled Bush, king pin of the Cub curvers, and shattered the morale of a team that had pranced into battle, cocky and confident, to grab a quick two run lead off burly Charlie Ruffing, best of the Yankee right hand pitchers. Bush lost his control and his stuff. His mates faltered behind him. And the game wore on to its inevitable conclusion, a dreary, pointless sort of duel, like two friends boxing for the fun of it. Ruth and Gehrig, their work done, faded into the background of the general scramble.

Attendance Drops

Only 41,459 spectators, far under the record for World Series attendance set at 67,600 by the Yankees in 1926, braved a chilly rainy morning and the decreasing showers that delayed the start of the opening game 15 minutes, to see the highly favored Yankees tear away to an impressive start.

It wasn't so much that the Yankees, famed for their hitting array, overpowered the Cubs as was expected, or that the giant red-headed Ruffing, hand-picked by the National League batters with his fire ball and crackling curve. Neither of those things happened.

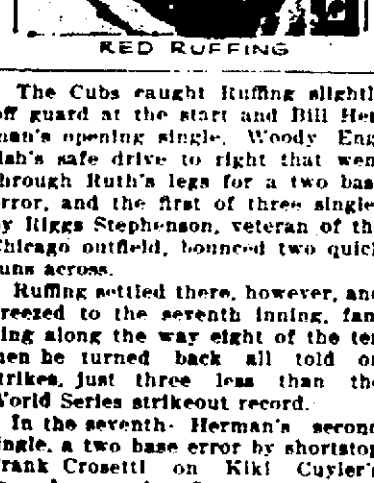

The Cubs, as a matter of fact, barked Ruth, the Red bristly in spots, but only after the Yanks had sprinted far to the front, the Braves picked up ten hits, among them a pair of doubles and a triple, while the men of Joe McCarthy touched Bush, and his successors, Burleigh Grimes and Bob Smith, for only eight.

But the Yankees took advantage of every lapse in the Cub defense, of the streaks of wildness that afflicted both Bush at the end of his stay, and Grimes during his brief return to the spotlight that last, shone upon him when he stood on the Cardinal peak last fall and twice whipped the champion Athletics.

Timothy M. By DeKey
Fotostudy Louis Joe Sewell, Ruth

and Gehrig started in the sixth, leading for bases on balls. Not until the sixth were they able to get a run, when a hit was needed most, after Lazzari had tied the game. Bill Alexander smashed a single to right and two more runs were in.

That was a total of five runs on three hits. Before the sixth, seven runs had been scored in favor of the Yankees. The Yankees scored seven runs in the sixth, and the game was over. The Yankees won the first game of the series, 12-6.

RED RUFFING

The Cubs caught Ruffing slightly off guard at the start and Bill Herman's opening single, Woody English's safe drive to right that went through Ruth's legs for a two base error, and the first of three singles by Illegis Stephenson, veteran of the Chicago outfield, bounced two quick runs across.

Ruffing settled there, however, and breezed to the seventh inning, fanning along the way eight of the ten men he turned back all told on strikes, just three less than the World Series strikeout record.

In the seventh, Herman's second single, a two base error by shortstop Frank Crosetti on Kiki Cuyler's grounder, another Stephenson single and an infield out scored two, while Gabby Hartnett's second double of the day, mark Koenig's triple, and an infield out added the final Cub pair in the eighth.

Games vs. Warneke.
Both managers have nominated starting pitchers for today. Vernon Gomez, crack young southpaw, was McCarthy's choice and Lou Warneke, the sensational youngster of the Cub staff, the hope of Charlie Grimm to leave tonight to resume the battle in three straight games starting on the Chicago front Saturday.

Jurges For Koenig.
Only one possible change appeared in the lineups. Koenig aggravated his damaged wrist sliding into third in the eighth inning and Bill Jurges was scheduled to replace him at shortstop in the Bruin array.

The probable lineups:

Cubs: Herman, 2b. Combs, cf. English, 3b. Cuyler, rf. Stephenson, lf. Lazzari, 1b. Grimes, c. Hartnett, c. Koenig or Jurges, ss. Crosetti, ss. Warneke, p.

Yankees: Ruth, 1b. Gehrig, 2b. Lazzari, 3b. Cuyler, rf. Stephenson, lf. Grimes, c. Hartnett, c. Koenig or Jurges, ss. Crosetti, ss. Warneke, p.

Yanks Favored 4-1

Because of their victory over the Cubs in the opening game of the world series, the Yankees are favored 4-1 to win the baseball championship for 1932. Experts in New York last night picked the Yankees to make it two straight today, the odds being 2-1.

Given a slight edge in early season reckoning, due to the prowess of Orr, Noller backed by a large group of linemen, the southern California Trojans nevertheless face a tough assignment in defending their Pacific Coast championship title. Shown with Noller are Jones, Trojan captain, and three chief steel centers.

Anti-Farm State Food
All summer long Anti-Farm has been catching lawmakers, small men like rodents that constitute their principal food supply. Much of the catch is stored underground for use in the winter time when hunting is not so good. As the frost comes they leave the ground in the vicinity of their burrows, the most they can do is keep themselves.

Borgia Beauty Hint.
N. Y.—Lucetta Borgia took time off from her duties to get unburied.
She went at it scientifically, we learn from the Golden Book. Her method was to use of egg and sugar-candy rubbed the face. She washed her teeth with a concoction of rosebuds, citronella, pine-needles, clay and wine. She dressed her face with mercury sublimate and white lead; which was all it took until some one chewed mutton breast on her, when she turned pale yellow, while garlic turned her red. And if you yearned to dye a chameleon lady green, you had merely to detect a chameleon in her bath.
These facts were in an article by Mrs. Corva, which proved that the Borgia were a lot brighter about her recipes than about venoms, and that the Borgia poisonings are largely myths.

VALUABLE METALS FOUND IN OREGON

Method of Extraction Problem for Inventors.

Medford, Ore.—Billions of dollars worth of complex metals lie in the ground of southern Oregon—but the master key for their extraction is lacking.

"Southern Oregon has more rare metals than any other district in the world, besides large quantities of the commonly used commercial metals,
but they are all mixed together," declared one expert.

These rare metals sell from $10 to $75 an ounce. The mining of them remains as a challenge to the metallurgical world. They are so mixed with each other and with base metals that their full value never has been properly appreciated.

But it is agreed among mining authorities familiar with the region that the chemist, or metallurgist, who devises a process of separating the precious metals not only will build himself a great fortune, but will cause Oregon to become the most important mineral producing state of the Western hemisphere—or perhaps of the world.

Millions of dollars in placer gold already has been taken from southern Oregon soil and millions more will be taken. A vast project financed by eastern capitalists and calling for development of the rich Mount Emily and Grave creek deposits on a 50 year basis was recently launched.

Large quantities of gold have been taken from "potholes," or from old dredged free milling ores. But as soon as these ores went below the surface
some complex sulphides were encountered and were rejected as too complex or refractory to treat.

The experts declare that southern Oregon holds vast deposits which composed together chrome-iron, gold,
platinum, palladium, iridium, osmium,
ruthenium, tantalum and other rare metals. Ores that run from 10 to 20 pounds of tantalum a ton have been reported.

Maybe It Was a Shark That Swallowed Jonah

Chicago.—If a whale had not swallowed Jonah, a prehistoric shark could have. Except for the fact that such sharks, which had jaws about five feet wide, lived a good many millions years before Jonah's time.

Based on the evidence produced by the research of paleontologists, a model of a great pair of jaws of the extinct shark known as Charcharodon is on exhibition at Field Museum of Natural History. Actual teeth of this huge creature, which inhabited the waters off the Carolina coast in Miocene time, some 18,000,000 to 23,000,000 years ago, have been set in the model of the jaws. These teeth are three to five inches in breadth. To provide contrast there is exhibited with the model a pair of jaws of a modern shark with a spread only a fraction of the five-foot gape of the ancient creature.

"Fossil teeth of this great shark, flat and triangular in shape, are found in the phosphate beds of Carolina and Florida and in 'shell-rock' as far west as Texas," says Elmer S. Riggs, associate curator of paleontology.

Bell Has Rung for 92 Years Without Repairs

London.—There is a bell in Oxford which has been ringing unceasingly for 92 years of its own accord.

It was made by a Charing Cross instrument maker in 1840, and stands in the Cheltenham laboratory. It has never been repaired or had a part replaced.

The bell is worked by a "dry pile"
battery consisting of 5,000 small paper discs coated with zinc and copper and encased in two glass tubes. A little metal cone is connected by wire to each tube, and between the cones hangs by a silk thread a small metal ball.

As the battery charges each gong,
the ball, attracted and repelled, swings to and fro, and the ringing can be heard seven feet away, though the apparatus is in a sealed glass case only 10 inches high.

Victim of Heat Freezes His Ears With Dry Ice

Chicago.—Karl Marvin froze his ears while the temperature stood at 97 degrees. Like hundreds of thousands of other persons, Marvin was seeking ways to get relief from the heat. It occurred to him that it might help to put ice on his head. He tried regular ice, but it melted and the water ran down his neck. Then he thought of using dry ice. A few minutes after he had applied the dry ice, his ears began to burn and turn white. A doctor informed him that they had been frozen.

REGARDING VITAMINS

Fats supply energy, warm the body and help to build body fat.

Proteins repair worn-out tissue and build new tissue. They also supply energy and heat.

Starches and sugars supply energy for muscular activity, warm the body and build body fat.

Minerals are needed for different purposes, some to build red blood cells, some to build bones and teeth, and others for various tissue making.
(These are all important and that is why vegetables are so valuable.)

Vitamins are the factors that control growth and health. The body must be provided with vitamins if health and normal development are to be assured. Certain of these are called by the letters A, B, C and D.
There are others not quite so well known.

All Eyes Turn to "New" Fur Capes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SO FAR as "stepping out" in that which is conspicuously new-looking and eminently chic she is lost who hesitates to top her "first" fall frocks, made either of one of the smart woollens or rough crepes, with a jaunty little fur cape. Later on the style formula calls for the addition of a wee muff or one not so diminutive
if you prefer.

These little fur capes are about the smartest thing fashion has to offer in the way of an early autumn wrap.
As winter comes on they will be worn over the collarless cloth coat which thus multiplies their practicality by two.

It is not only that such varied types of fur are employed in their styling, but the fact that the silhouette of these youthful-looking capes is so variously interpreted, adds greatly to their intrigue. Perhaps if one were called upon to cite one fur as being more generally in use than another for the making of the new capes the honors would go to astrakhan and its near relatives such as Persian lamb, broadtail and gairak. Iced lapin is also a great favorite not only in brown and black, but especially in gray for gray furs answer the call of the hour.

Then too, the furs which are made up into new and novel capes emphasize their charm in that they are toned to blend into the color scheme of the costume ensemble. Consider the little mole cape to the left in the picture in relation to color harmony. It tops a frock made of a novelty woolen in a rich autumn green shade, the natural tone of the mole pelt together with the soft green achieving a color value which at once appeals to discriminating taste.

This model is unique in that it is a cross between a cape and a jacket.
The fronts of this nobby fur wrap cross and fasten with square silver buttons which emphasize the importance of a touch of metal to enhance the fall costume.

The outfit which the young woman pictured to the right is wearing is keyed up to fashion's very latest.
First of all notice that the cloth dress assumes princess lines and that which is highly significant is the fact of it being buttoned from neck to hem line. It has also a close-up-about-the-throat collar effect which interprets an outstanding fashion trend. The cape of Persian lamb is the popular circular type. Its accompanying barrel muff completes the picture.

The fashion of separate fur pieces which may be worn with any coat or dress or suit is destined to develop into a vogue of vast proportions.

Milliners, too, are doing their bit in contributing to the glory of the new fall fur ensembles in that they are trimming many of their smartest hats with fur fantasies.

LIPSON'S TEA STARTS ITS LARGEST CAMPAIGN

A large space, well-lit sections and a national list of several hundred newspapers make up an advertising campaign being run by Thomas J. Lipson, Inc., to promote not only the sale of Yellow Label Tea, but to help bring the public back to the economy of buying for quality and not for price. The last few years have found an ever-increasing use of the price appeal, due of course, to limited food budgets, but carried far beyond what was really necessary. Lower prices brought smaller dollar volume, and smaller profit to the retail grocer. Lipson felt it was time to turn this movement to quality in those commodities such as tea, where it is most economical to buy the best. This would help the grocer by increasing his unit of sale and lengthening his margin of profit.

CHILDREN'S SOBS UPSET COURT AND REVERSE A JUDGE

Girl and Boy Refuse to Go With Mother and Cling to Their Father.

Chicago.—A nine-year-old girl and her five-year-old brother threw the courtroom of Superior Judge Ross C. Hall and part of the county building into turmoil by defying a court order placing them in custody of their mother. The children sought reversal of the order after the judge contested he was upset by the children's protest. They left happily with their father.

The domestic drama opened when the judge ordered Mrs. Margaret Surz, twenty-eight years old, to take Ellen, her blond daughter, and Rudolph, Jr., from her husband, a truck driver. Mrs. Surz is seeking a divorce on charges of cruelty. Her attorney, Victor Ichniowski, said the father had refused to surrender the children.

Cling to Their Father.
The children were led from the courtroom crying. In the corridor the boy wrapped his arms about his father's legs and refused to move. The daughter clung to his arm. Both wailed. The mother was in tears. Other courtrooms emptied. bystanders offered advice.

The father consented to take the children to the street and talk with them. The children continued crying in the elevator. Employees left offices in the building to learn the cause of the disturbance.

A throng swelled about the family in the lobby of the county building. The children refused to leave their father, meeting each argument with a fresh burst of crying. A bailiff suggested all return to the courtroom.

In the courtroom the children screamed at their mother and father argued, attorneys wrangled and Mrs. Surz's mother, Mrs. Margaret Westrasky, shouted that her daughter was not worthy to have the children. Attorney Richard Klein, representing the father, and Attorney Frohlich were near blows. At every lull Mrs. Westrasky shouted that fortune tellers had told her the children would be better off with their father.

Judge Leaves Bench.
The judge left the bench, announcing he would be unable to make a decision in such disorder. He ordered the children brought into his chambers. Screams and crying could be heard through the door. The judge came out 15 minutes later, perspiring. "The girl is in hysterics, the boy is in hysterics and I'm near hysterics," he said. "Let their father have them."

Widow Who Never Saw Mate to Share Estate

New Haven, Conn.—A widow who never saw her husband was granted a share in the estate of Louis Lopes, in a decree entered in Probate court here.

Lopes, a Portuguese citizen, was married by proxy April 23, 1931, to Mary Miguel Lopes of Fogo, Portugal. Lopes, who came to this country in 1911 and lived many years in Wareham, Mass., died April 1, 1932, before he had an opportunity to bring his unseen bride to this country.

Probate Judge John L. Gilson after an examination of Portuguese law, declared the proxy marriage legal and ordered the estate divided between Mrs. Lopes and two sons by a previous marriage, John and Joseph Lopes of Port Chester, N. Y.

Crazed Farmer Kills Self With Dynamite

Richmond, Va.—Caroline county officials are investigating the sale of six sticks of dynamite to George Dulhak, a farmer bereft of his reason by financial troubles, who used the explosive to commit suicide.

While his family looked on, Dulhak slashed the throats of his horses and cattle and then lighted the fuse attached to the dynamite and blew himself to pieces.

His children fled from the barn, which was destroyed in a second explosion which their father had caused by lighting a longer fuse.

Numbered Phone Poles Used as Guides in Maine

Surry, Maine.—"Where does Farmer Brown live?"

Once it would have been a problem for a native to reply to the stranger asking this question, for Surry's dwellings are numberless.

But now the tourist inquiring the way to Farmer Brown's may be told: "Go down the road to telephone pole No. 137."

Each telephone pole in Surry bears an aluminum number for guidance of company line-men, and residents have come to use these identification marks in lieu of house numbers.

Fisherman's "Catch" Is 100 Pound Anchor

Lawrence, Mass.—Samuel Rodin was deep-sea fishing recently. Luckless for over an hour, his line finally grew taut. It took all his strength to pull in the catch, which proved to be an anchor weighing nearly 100 pounds.

If This Be True—New York.—Patrick Henry was arrested recently while making a speech in a Brooklyn park. He was deprived of his liberty for one day. Henry was charged with intoxication.

Fish Story Verified—Oceola, Mo.—For the benefit of friends who might not believe, H. H. Heller went before a notary public with a 40-pound catfish he caught and had witnesses list their names.

Blame 'Flapper Era' for Women's Death

Fort Worth, Texas.—The "flapper" era is blamed for the death of a woman in the death rate from heart disease among young women. A recent national survey shows that heart disease takes its heaviest toll from girls between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five. Frederick H. Hopkins, New York, secretary of the National Tuberculosis Association, said in an address here.

GANGSTER RULE IN CATSKILLS ENDED

Wiping Out of "Fats" McCarthy Is Approved.

Albany, N. Y.—The recent killing of Edward (Fats) McCarthy marks the virtual ending of a troublesome New York gangster alliance that included the late Jack (Legs) Diamond and Vincent Coll.

For some time the three were a thorn in the side of authorities. Gangster enemies obliged police by "rubbing out" Coll and Diamond, while McCarthy met his end in a pistol battle with New York detectives near here.

Coll and McCarthy gained considerably notoriety last year when five-year-old Michael Venghall was shot and killed by a stray gangster bullet while playing in a Harlem street. The bullet, fired by an automobile load of hoodlums, was believed meant for an enemy gangster.

Subsequently, McCarthy was charged with slaying a New York detective who sought to arrest him in connection with the Harlem incident. Until he felt mortally wounded with a bullet in his head he had eluded capture.

Coll, rated a real "tough guy," was arrested and tried several months ago but was acquitted. Gangster enemies cornered him in a New York city telephone booth shortly afterwards, trained a submachine gun on him and blazed away.

The first of the trio to go was Diamond, "Legs," who led an influx of racketeers to the Catskill mountain region and Albany last year, was shot and killed last December while lying in an intoxicated stupor here.

When Diamond forsook New York's underworld and transferred his booze and racketeering activities to the Catskills, he was followed by Coll, McCarthy, and several others. Like Diamond, Coll was driven out last fall by a militant attorney general's office.

McCarthy, in hiding in the vicinity of Catskill and Albany since last summer, managed to keep his exact whereabouts a secret until he was cornered near his home in the Albany-Schenectady road.

Flees After Auto Crash; Breaks Leg Scaling Fence

San Francisco.—Reinhold Lange, chef, decided he had better get away from the scene of an accident after his car had struck that of Bert Hingworth, injuring three occupants of the latter machine, as quickly as possible. He drove away as rapidly as he could, Hingworth reported, but a short distance away he crashed into another automobile.

This time he started away on foot. He ran toward a high fence, started to scale it, fell, and broke his leg. Police found him there, and booked him on hit-and-run charges after taking him to an emergency hospital.

Lost Girl Fast Asleep in Hay as Hunt Goes On

Carlisle, Pa.—Orpha Jane Varner, aged four, was reported missing from her home at Oakville, near here.

Searching parties hunted through the woods, in nearby buildings, in fields on the family farm. District and state police were called. A statewide broadcast was sent out.

Eight hours later two of the searchers passed a hay mow on the Varner farm. They decided to give it careful scrutiny. Buried deep in the hay they found Orpha fast asleep.

Woman Makes Long Trip in Outboard Motorboat

Stockholm.—Trotting a small boat with an outboard motor from Sweden to the Black sea, Miss Alma Cederblom of this city has arrived in Constantinople. She took her craft via the Baltic sea, the North sea and the Atlantic through the rivers to Central Europe. She intends to proceed to Istanbul, and later visit the largest European and African ports around the Mediterranean.

"Four" Rocked Rich

Wallonia, Ore.—Aged and apparently poverty-stricken, F. M. Davis, a recluse, died while hoeing his garden here. Cash and securities totaling $30,000 were found in his meager effects.

Fish Story Verified

Oceola, Mo.—For the benefit of friends who might not believe, H. H. Heller went before a notary public with a 40-pound catfish he caught and had witnesses list their names.

WEST SHOKAN.

West Shokan, Sept. 29. The older making season is in full swing. Older berries are plentiful and cheap, and due to Ed Winkler are busy boys these days pressing out the golden juice for custom trade.

Mart Every, well known Traver Hollow turkey farmer, has finished that cantankerous job of cleaning out and arboring up his berry patch. Tuesday Mr. Every turned his attention to the rebuilding of the stone sluice crossing the road at the foot of the rear of his residence. Certainly rental Mart can never be rightfully accused of eating the bread of idleness. He up and doing is his motto.

It was with a sincere feeling of regret that the local high school commuters learned that their faithful and capable old bus driver, Chauncey Van D-Mark, had been severely injured in the bus accident which occurred last Saturday afternoon on the Plank Road leading from Kingston. Chauncey has been employed as a bus driver for the past ten years, during which time he has shown remarkable skill in driving school children and passengers safely to and from Kingston. On slippery mornings Chauncey always took plenty of time on dangerous strips of the road, and although the scholars were sometimes late in arriving at school, cautiousness proved the best policy. Once before the left front spring of the bus broke while crossing the viaduct leading into Kingston. The bus swerved to the left and nearly ran up on the sidewalk. "Lucky the vehicle was brought under control almost immediately and no one was injured. It was indeed fortunate the bus was not filled with school children when it left the road last Saturday afternoon, for the result might have proved even more serious than it did. Everyone wishes Chauncey the best of luck for a speedy and complete recovery.

There was a good attendance at the Sunday school session at the Community Church on Sunday afternoon. The topic under discussion was, "Moses Honored in His Death." The golden text, selected from Psalm 116:15, was, "Precious in the Sight of the Lord is the Death of His Saints."

Miss Lorraine Tweedy received her diploma from the Primary class and has been accepted in the Adult class. Next Sunday's topic will be "The Christian's Devotional Life." Since the Rev. Mr. Sharp was unable to be present at Community Church on Sunday, Mr. Schoonmaker of Westkill conducted the service. He delivered an interesting sermon on the "Comparison of Christians and Palm Trees." His Bible reference was Psalm 92:11-12. The choir sang two selections, "Amen" and "Shadows." At the close of next Sunday's service the Lord's Supper will be observed.

Professor Ralph B. Longyear and a group of friends of Phoenicia were visitors at West Shokan Heights on Sunday afternoon. While here the professor and his party enjoyed the wonderful view of the reservoir and valley from the look-off point on the former Rowland Bell farm.

The heavy white but happily non-killing frost proved to be the fore-runner of a much needed rain which began falling early Tuesday, and after drizzling along during the murky day, finally set in for a down-pour and continued all night. But thus far it is only a drop in the bucket toward replenishing nearly fad-dry sources of water supply.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl H. Carey of Kingston were callers here on Sunday afternoon.

Some needed repairs are being made along the Bushkill Hill end of the mountain road. This route in the days of the tanning industry was much used as a connecting link between Samsonville and Watson Hollow. It is now coming more and more in use by automobile travel, and it is not too wild a prediction that it may become an improved highway.

Filmore Bell, the veteran gardener of the Watson Hollow road, has a fine collection of waterclosets and musketeers which he is supplying his customers despite the dry weather. Mr. Bell has been in the truck garden business for the past fifty years and more and at the same old stand.

People of this locality really haven't an opportunity to run out of household supplies for Abraham Longyear, the Watkins dealer of Phoenicia, made his regular trip on Monday afternoon. He was followed on Tuesday afternoon by Vance Hoxan of Kingston, representing the Drake Company. Both of these salesmen are well liked by the good housewives, who really look forward to the appearance of these versatile vendors of household necessities.

The name of Charles H. Weldner as one of the three Olive jurors drawn for the coming term of supreme court.

The Saturday night dance at Colanque Hall brought to an end these successful week-end functions which have been held regularly throughout the summer season.

Judge Fred L. Weldner of North Main street was a business caller at West Shokan Heights. Tuesday morning.

Charles H. Weldner, proprietor of Hickory Hill Farm, has repaired the time worn roof on his residence, and is now engaged in re-roofing the older buildings on his poultry plant.

"Progress" is the permanent watchword at Hickory Hill.

Friends of Mrs. Louis Sahler of Stone Ridge, a former well known local resident, will be interested to learn that she has recovered her pocketbook containing considerable money and priceless memorabilia, believed lost while on a recent Kingston trip. For a time there was no response to her last ad appearing in the papers and Mrs. Sahler came to give up hope entirely. A week or so later one of her neighbors with whom a pleasant afternoon had been spent, was dusting up about the parlor as thrifty housewives are wont to do, when lo and behold the much sought article was quite unexpectedly recovered from the cushioned depths of the guest chair which Mrs. Sahler had occupied. It was but the work of a moment to rush to the telephone and joyfully relieve the owner of her continued but quite needless worry. Hereafter Mrs. Sahler while visiting friends or shopping will doubtless leave unnecessary large sums of money and her prized mementoes at home.

The work on Mr. Colanque's storage reservoir is now rapidly nearing completion.

Charles H. Weldner of North Main street was a business caller at West Shokan Heights Monday evening. Mrs. Sarah, nee Watson, of Watson Hollow, who sustained a stroke a few weeks ago, has unexpectedly recovered the use of her limbs and is able to be about out of doors. However she requires continued watching as her mind is affected from her illness.

"Iron Mike" Will Guide Plane on Nonstop Trip

London.—One of the chief pilots in the British long-range monoplane, when it attempts its proposed non-stop flight from England to Cape Town in the fall will be "George," or "Iron Mike."

These are two of the nicknames which have been bestowed on the robot pilot, an uncanny mechanical device which steers an aircraft on a set course with superhuman accuracy. Once the course and altitude are set "George" can take sole charge of the machine for distances up to 400 miles and can be relied upon to apply just the degree of movement of rudder and elevator needed to return a plane to its correct position after a temporary deviation.

The human pilot in making these corrections of course and altitude almost invariably overshoots or under-shoots the mark, which necessitates further manual corrections, thus resulting in the plane traveling in a zig-zag line for a considerable distance. In fog and mist "Iron Mike" is an even greater blessing to the aviator for he needs no visible horizon and his spinning gyroscope records any change in direction more accurately than the human eye.

During the test flight of the long-range Fairey Napier monoplane from Cranwell, Lincolnshire, to Cairo early this year, this robot pilot was given a thorough testing while the two pilots washed, shaved, ate their meals in comfort and devoted themselves to observation or problems of navigation.

TRICKS of MAGIC EXPLAINED

MYSTERIOUS TRICK WITH PAPER

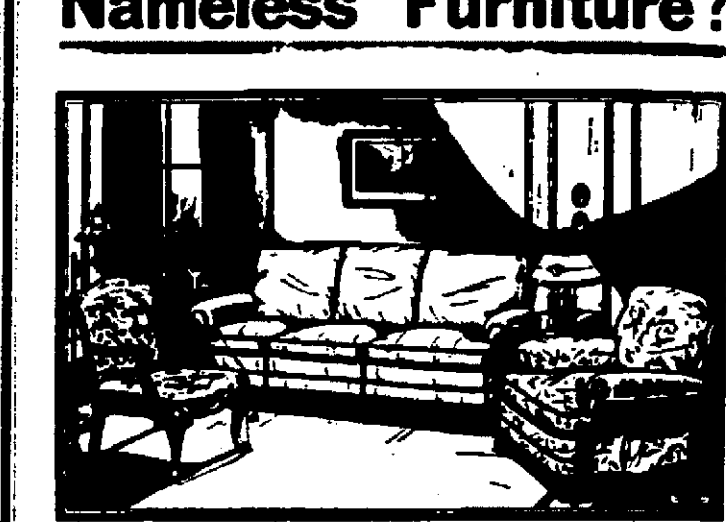

Ask three persons to write their names on a sheet of paper. The first person should be a woman, and the second a man. Request each name be written directly below the preceding one. Then take the paper and tear it into three pieces with a name on each piece. Drop these into a hat and announce that you will turn your face the other way and select the name of the person who will be the first to go. When you reach into the hat for the first name, you will find that the name is Katherine. The second name is Al B. and the third is Charlotte. The one with the two rough edges is the man's name written on it and has the two rough edges because it is torn from the center of the paper.
